Officer Fires One Shot To Stop Robbery Suspect; Boy Ignores 'Halt' Order

(By OPAL TANDY)
Tommy Lee Brown, a recent elementary school graduate, who would have been sixteen years old next month and who climbed steadily up the difficult ladder of education with one thought in mind—to become a great engineer—will never be able to see the full fulfillment of his dreams. He lay dead today in the City Morgue—victim of a policeman's bullet who "never wanted to do that sort of thing."
Tommy was killed, Tuesday night, by police when they surprised him and an accomplice in a filling station at Ninth street and Capitol avenue, trying to rob the station.
Officer Eddie Butler said that as he alighted from the car, together with Officer Osa Woodall, they saw the two figures run out of the front door and called to the station.

Southside Residents Seek Gas Main

Action Sought From Utility As Club Takes Lead in Fight for Gas

Southside residents and homeowners are securing signatures to petition the Citizens Gas and Coke company to install gas lines in their section of the city.
James H. Tucker, secretary and treasurer of the Southside Sportsman Club, revealed that his club would petition the company after two previous efforts on the part of southside citizens ranging over a period of fifteen years had proved futile.
The decision to petition a third time Tucker said, came after approximately twenty-five homeowners solicited the aid of the club in having gas installed.
Following a telephone conversation with the manager of the gas company in which he explained that it would entail too much expenditure on the part of the company to install gas in a section so remote, Tucker said that the lack of gas was causing a serious utility problem and necessitated action on the part of proper authorities.
Financial conditions of these involved, Tucker said, made it possible for them to purchase stoves within the next sixty days but they would have to be gas stoves as coal and wood would be too expensive in that section. He explained that 90 percent of the cooking and household necessities incurred were being taken care by kerosene stoves which are both inefficient and expensive.
The section to be utilized would center in and around South Keystone avenue in the 1800 block, 3 squares south and one and one-half squares north.

DEATH TAKES PROMINENT LOCAL MAN

Death has brought to an end the life of a long-lived and serviceable career.
William M. Dickerson, 226 N. Oakland avenue, who started fifty years ago as a common laborer and worked up to become assistant manager of one of the city's largest asphalt companies, died Tuesday at the City Hospital after having been given blood for a transfusion by white friends.
He had been ill four weeks.
For many years Dickerson was superintendent in charge of road construction handled by the Western Asphalt company. He had been foreman on many of the street jobs of Indianapolis and had served throughout the entire state.
He was highly respected throughout the community as a businessman and citizen. He was a member of the K. of P. lodge and has been active in relief work.
Funeral services for Mr. Dickerson, in charge of the John A. Patterson Funeral Home, will be held Friday with burial in Crown Hill Cemetery. Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Anna Dickerson; a sister, Mrs. Bessie Travis, and two brothers, Juke and Yuke Brono, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

North Side Civic Clubs to Fight Delinquency

The Federation of North Side Civic clubs, which recently organized a department for the suppressing of juvenile delinquency, met Monday night at the residence of W. D. Brooks, president, 2935 Paris avenue.

Paul C. Wetter, attorney and president of the Indianapolis Federation of Civic clubs (white) was the guest speaker.

He praised the club for the stand it had taken in trying to reduce utility rates to a par equal to that of other cities and urged them to go even farther by demanding a North Side community house.

"We should work with the public officials," Wetter said, "but as taxpayers, we should demand and not ask for our community needs as we pay the bills."

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace Hall, April 5 in West Twenty-ninth street, with William H. Remy, former Marion county prosecutor, as guest speaker.

Slayer of Tuxedo Bandit Exonerated by Coroner

"GEORGIA BOY," FANCY DRESSER, PAYS WITH LIFE

Dr. Norman R. Booher, deputy coroner, after holding an inquest into the fatal shooting-to-death of Porter (Georgia Boy) Smith by a North Side grocer, said that a verdict of justifiable homicide would be returned against William Eads, white, age 64, 2264 North Pennsylvania St., who killed the immaculately dressed bandit Sunday morning.

Eads allegedly shot Smith when he found him crouched behind a counter in his store eating a penny sucker. He walked past the man, got a .32-calibre revolver and started shooting at Smith, who tried to defend himself by throwing canned goods and merchandise at the grocer, so Eads said.

Eads said that he was awakened by his wife who noticed a light in the store a few minutes after she arose intent on preparing breakfast. She told her husband, who hurriedly dressed and went to the store, located a short distance from their home, and encountered Smith.

Eads shot Smith in the head, heart, and lungs, the burglar dying instantly. A checkup revealed that several dollars worth of merchandise was missing from the store besides that which was found on the floor, which apparently had been placed there by Smith before them, "Halt!" Tommy fled between two houses with Butler after him. Trapped between the law and a brick barricade, Tommy was desperately trying to escape. He had many reasons to want to get away. If he were caught, he would go to jail, serve time like he had done once before; he would be denied the privilege of going to high school with others of his playmates—he would not be able to pursue the course in engineering that he so longed for and the road to education was no royal one—he just had to get away from that policeman.

His legs worked faster and faster as he paid no heed to the command "Halt!" Backward and forward he ran, all the time being commanded to stop by the policeman who thought he was a man. At the rear of one house a low white fence loomed up in front of him. A blessing in disguise—he thought—or was it?

Tommy made a move to hurdle the fence, but a bullet from the officer's gun halted him in his tracks, and he stumbled backward, gasping for life, shot in the back of the head. As he lay on the wet ground, his life slowly ebbing away, no one knows what thoughts flashed through his mind but it would not be far wrong to assume that he saw the futility of crime—and realized that the wages of sin—death—were far too costly to pay even for an education.

A few minutes after, an ambulance took him to the City Hospital. Tommy died in the admitting room without ever having regained consciousness. His youthful companions had escaped and scores of persons who visited the morgue, Tuesday night and part of the day Wednesday, could not identify the lad, who weighed less than a hundred pounds. He was just another John Doe.

Back at Tommy's home his relatives were wondering and beginning to worry about his whereabouts. He had been missing since early Tuesday evening. His aunt, Mrs. Nancy Taylor, with whom he had lived for seven of the years since the death of his mother, went to work Wednesday morning with a heavy heart—she knew that something must have happened—Tommy had never stayed out all night before.

Later that evening a reporter from the Indianapolis Recorder, who had learned the identity of Tommy through the trial and error method, rapped on the door at 745 Indiana avenue. It was opened by a small boy with large eyes that already showed signs of sadness in them. "Do you know Tommy Lee?" the reporter asked. "Yes sir," he answered, "Tommy lived here and was a cousin of mine." "Do you know where he is now?" "No sir, I have been wondering where he was—do you know?" "Yes, I do; he is dead. He was killed last night by a policeman when he tried to rob a filling station," the reporter answered, and turned his head away. When he looked at the little boy again, his eyes were filled with tears that seemed to have been waiting for an outlet.

Curtis Winters told the reporter how he had been reared up with Tommy ever since they were very small; how they played marbles and went to school together. Tommy was the smarter, he said, but he would also work every day in the summer on a coal wagon for $25 and would sell Sunday papers. "The last I saw of him he was leaving with another boy and told me to be sure to remember that he had a new customer in the Lockfield Gardens. My last time I ever saw him. My aunt has been worrying about him but she is at work now, no one is here but me." Detectives came to question Curtis, too. They learned that Tommy was a brilliant student in school but had been arrested more than once for petty misdemeanors and once was confined for a short period of time.

Little Winters, who is thirteen, never stole anything, never was even arrested like Tommy, but he still loved Tommy, and why shouldn't he—they were raised up together, went fishing along the creek bank, why Tommy even taught him how to shoot marbles like he was doing just before he was killed, Tuesday night. NO—regardless of what policemen and detectives had to say about the matter, Tommy, like a movie version, was the grandest guy Curtis ever knew.

Funeral services for Tommy have not been completed, but it is expected that his body will be shipped to his native state, Canton, Miss., to rest beside his mother who died when he was just able to walk.

He is survived by the aunt, his father, a sister, and two cousins.

PRAISES RAY; ANNOUNCES FOR OFFICE

Praising the administration under which he served for three years, Orville P. Ray, a deputy, has announced his candidacy as Democratic nominee for the office of sheriff of Marion county.

In praising the efficiency of the present sheriff, Ray said, "I believe that the present sheriff's administration has been conducted better than any other in the history of the county." He pledged to follow the program of Otto Ray and make improvements whenever the tax payers demanded it enough to appropriate the necessary amount of money.

Denies Statement

In commenting on the statement of a candidate who made a statement that there was not an efficient road patrol, Ray denied that the statement was true and said that for three years there had not been an unmeasured call in the county regardless of how trivial it was.

Ray was born in Effingham, Illinois, but came to this city in 1896. He received his education in the public schools here and also attended Terre Haute High school.

He is a World War veteran and is active in the American Legion, and other organizations.

he was surprised by Eads. A large chuck roast was missing from the store, Mrs. Eads said, and was not found among the articles removed by Smith. This led police to believe that "Georgia Boy" had an accomplice working with him from the outside.

Smith, who lay dead in a new tuxedo suit, was not recognized by police until a Bertillon expert from the Homicide Bureau checked the fingerprints file after having taken his prints while he lay in the City Morgue, unclaimed. The police record, besides identifying him as Porter Smith, alias James Davis, alias "Georgia Boy," revealed that he had a long criminal record, dating back to 1931, in Indianapolis. He had been held as follows: July 29, 1931—arrested for assault and battery with intent to kill; August 10, 1932—discharged by grand jury; April 1, 1934—arrested for vagrancy; April 2, 1932—discharged, taken to Hendricks County, Ind.; January 5, 1936—arrested for vagrancy and petty larceny; January 6, 1936—discharged and fined one dollar and costs and sentenced to serve ten days in jail on petty larceny; April 22, 1936—arrested for vagrancy and burglary; January 15, 1936—burglary was reduced to petty larceny and he was sentenced to serve one year at the Indiana State Farm.

PORTER SMITH

Police were searching today for "Georgia Boy's" residence but so far are unsuccessful. They have not been able to notify relatives for this reason. He will receive a county burial.

Stop, Look, Listen

If one habitually ignores the familiar "stop, look, listen" sign at railroad crossings he will sooner or later come to grief. Likewise, when one pays no attention to symptoms of eyestrain, such as blurred eyelids, sties, bloodshot eyeballs, smarting or burning or actual pain in the eyes, he may expect to have serious trouble with his eyesight. Neglected eyestrain often results in distortion of vision and sometimes in total loss of sight. Give your eyes the care that they deserve. Have them examined regularly by a competent optometrist.

Columbus Bronzeville Folk Election Bent

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 10.—Popularity stays with Miss Dorothy Hobson, of 165 E. Fourth avenue, who Wednesday night, won for the second time, the "Miss Bronzeville" contest, held in connection with the election of a "Mayor of Bronzeville," titular head of the 40,000 Negroes in Columbus.

Rev. Norlie L. Scarborough, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, likewise retains his popularity. He was re-elected "Mayor of Bronzeville" for the second year by a tremendous vote, leading his nine competitors almost ten to one. He will be officially re-inaugurated next month.

The election, sponsored by the Ohio State News, has been in the campaign for nearly two months. But the climax was the "Bronzeville Ball," held in the Ogden Ballroom, Long street and Garfield avenue, Wednesday night. More than 500 attended. As the music of Floyd Ray's band waxed hot, it was "swing it high and swing it low, kick your heels" and everybody look out for his own shine. The two "swinging it" above are Elizabeth Treadwell, 589 Galloway avenue, runner-up in the "Miss Bronzeville" race, and Alonzo Hairston, 1105 Atcheson street.

TRUTH VISIONS

(By Abbe' Wallace)

W.L.T.—I am a minister and I have three small churches and can't make a living wage out of all of them. Tell me if I will make a change soon?

Ans.: I am afraid that you will not make a change this year. You must try to build up the three churches that you have now . . . as well as take up something as a side line. This year is going to be an improvement over last.

C.C.C.—Why did my husband sit on the back seat at the style show after I went back there twice to make him come up front? I am beginning to believe there is something doing for him besides living true to me?

Ans.: There was a very attractive woman sitting back with your husband but he couldn't get to first base with her. The chief reason he didn't sit with you was that he wanted to see just how much fuss you would make if he didn't. Don't treat him like a child . . . you can't keep up with him any better by running after him. He's true to you.

IGJ.—Does my present girl friend love me or is she using me as a fish?

Ans.: She does love you, but goodness knows she isn't thinking of marrying you. Don't let the old "love bug" bite you before you get out of school . . . you had better make a few more friends to stay on the safe side.

E.M.J.—Why can't I learn to dance like other girls?

Ans.: You have failed to try as hard as you might although dancing seems to be just a part of some people. Take a course of dancing lessons from an instructor in your city and you can develop as much grace as any of your friends.

W.M.C.—Did my husband really buy those things that I found in his dresser drawer?

Ans.: He did . . . your suspicions about them being a gift isn't true. Funny as it may seem to you, he marched right down and bought them without a "blush".

D.E.V.—Will the woman I am going with divorce her husband and marry me or am I wasting my time?

Ans.: Wasting time and money too, Buddy. If she didn't want her husband she would have left him long ago. Don't be a sucker any longer.

L.C.B.—What city should I go to with the thought in mind to start all over again and never have to look back at the black past of my life?

Ans.: With the few hundred dollars you have saved you could take it to Chicago and establish yourself again in business. The dirty deal that you got is just something for you to remember as "experience" and of worry about it one minute.

L.W.S.—My man friend has given me the "run-around" two different times. The first time he left and came back a year later saying he was sorry. Now I forgive that and he did the same thing again. He left two months ago and he wants to take me back now. What to do?

Ans.: Wash your hands of this affair . . . he will do it time and again if you give him the chance. He has proved himself a "falsehood" by not carrying out the plans for marriage . . . he is just using you as a good thing and you are too smart to allow it.

R.W.—My father's sister promised me that when I became fifteen she would have me to live with her. Can I depend on it as I am reaching that age now?

Ans.: Indeed you can . . . all you have to do is to write her and let her know that you are interested. She wants to educate you like she had planned for her own child to be educated and where you are living now . . . you can't get this training very well.

provisions.

Federal grants of $70,000,000 for 1939-40, to be increased to $199,000,000 for 1944-45, are asked. In addition to vocational grants, which should be expanded for additional types of vocational work, the committee recommends new aid for public elementary and secondary schools, a fund for preparation of teachers and other educational personnel, construction of school buildings, improved administration of state departments of education, adult education and rural library service. It was also suggested that congress provide a special fund for educational research, planning and demonstrations. After six years, the program might be revised.

Discussing how the money should be divided within each state, the report says it "is of the opinion that the distribution of federal aid funds within a state is not a matter that should be left exclusively to state officials." State and federal officials should be required to make the allotments to local districts on an objective basis, in the manner that will "most effectively lessen inequalities of opportunity" for schooling.

Although joint planning is necessary in connection with such problems as the allocation of funds, the committee points out, cooperative planning should be carefully restricted by law to matters of direct federal concern.

Special attention should be given to rural schools of both races, since "the least satisfactory schools in the United States are to be found for the most part in rural areas." Urban schools spend almost twice as much per capita as did rural institutions which, according to the committee, means that country areas should receive the largest amount of federal aid.

The committee was assisted by a large temporary staff of specialists in education, public administration and economics. Included among them were Dorey A. Wilkerson, of the Department of Education at Howard University, and Dr. Robert C. Weaver, adviser on Negro Affairs to the Administrator of the U. S. Housing Authority.

YOUNG BESS IN FINALS

editor of the Huntington daily which sponsored the tournament there wrote to Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, asking that accommodations be obtained for Mose "apart from his white teammates" and at cheaper rates. If possible, on the other hand, though, Huntington is due considerable applause for allowing colored boys to participate.

On the bright side is the relationship between white fighters from such Deep South points as Nashville, Fort Worth, Lexington, Ky., etc., and their race's plight in Dixie while the paleface boys evidently deem it a disgrace to be licked by an African. Result: the most heated bouts on the card. But good sportsmanship is always evident. After the match, they throw their arms about each other's shoulders as if they were long-lost brothers. Too bad this attitude is not generally shown down South.

When you realize that Negroes in Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, etc., are barred from making sectional teams and that some northern cities select colored boys only where their superiority is overwhelming (officials in Grand Rapids, Mich., are accused of stating they would send an all-white team unless colored contenders knocked out their opponents—and Grand Rapids had a pair of dusky fighters who overcame even this obstacle), the domination of our boys is even more impressive.

The Savory Athletic club, on the Chicago South Side, led the list of local qualifiers. In the four sectional tournaments, they came up with 32 contenders for the big meet. Of that group, one, Orlando Trotter, has reached the final night of fighting. Gary In. sends over an all-colored team which proved one of the strongest in the meet.

After several brown boys were eliminated and disputed decisions in the quarter finals Wednesday night, dusky spectators in the audience started yelling to their racial brothers during mixed bouts: "Knock him out! That's the only way you can win around here!"

While one energetic battler was hitting his pale opponent with everything but the ring posts, a Caucasian turned angrily to a yell and said: "What do you want him to do—kill him?" From two rows away came another dusky voice, "Hell, yes."

Of course, officials are on the spot. Ring judges know that when they give the nod to a colored boy in a close bout, the crowd will get on them, and if they award it to the white lad, they will be accused of prejudice—for, despite the ease of the majority, I have heard many Caucasians protest to neighbors about robbing sepias of fights they had clearly won.

It is understood that some "control" is necessary. If every fight were decided on its merits without the color issue involved, final lists for the past few years would be almost exclusively colored. This would kill the show for the audience must be drawn mainly from Caucasians, and it is not likely they would come in any appreciable numbers to see an all-Negro performance. Their "superiority" couldn't stand it.

Despite the partisanship shown, the prospect of seeing mixed bouts brings out the crowds. Although there is plenty of boozing, local throngs do like to see white and colored fighters thrown together—and I firmly believe that if Negro boxers were eliminated entirely, the Golden Gloves tournament would have only a fraction of its present interest to the public. As for the fighters themselves, it helps create a better interracial understanding and respect—at least for the individuals involved.

Noted Sociologist Gives Fisk University Valuable Library

DR. CHARLES S. JOHNSON AND DR. ROBERT E. PARK

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 11. (ANP)—A library of one thousand volumes which Dr. Robert E. Park has collected, because these special books have been found useful to him and his sociology students at the University of Chicago, has just been given to Dr. Charles S. Johnson with the understanding that they be held in trust for the use of the Social Science Institute at Fisk University. Dr. Park hopes that they will form the nucleus of a larger collection available to students interested in the broader studies of the races.

When Dr. Johnson decided to give up his work as editor of Opportunity to direct the Department of Social Science at Fisk, he did it with the advice of Dr. Park. Three years ago, Dr. Park joined the Fisk faculty and together they have set up a Race and Culture Seminar which is attracting widespread notice. Only two other such courses are offered, one at the University of Honolulu where Dr. Park lectured four years ago, and one at the University of Chicago. This year the group at Fisk has centered its attention on problems of acculturation involving the Negro, Indian, and Latin people of Brazil, where social, economic, and cultural aspects of racial problems are similar to those in America.

Dr. Park's library is made up of books and magazines containing much source material throwing light on the history of the Jewish people and on racial situations in Hawaii, Japan, China, Africa, South America and the United States.

The experiments also seem to show that sudden changes in the temperature in the winter have little or no effect on healthy people who are suitably dressed. In summer, however, we are much more sensitive to temperature changes, probably because the body surfaces in summer are covered with perspiration.

YOUTH KILLED

A fifteen-year-old boy, working with an accomplice, was killed Tuesday night in the act of robbing a filling station.

The incident is regrettable partly because of the extreme youth of the victim and partly because of the manner in which he was killed — while fleeing. The law plainly specifies that a policeman may shoot when he feels that his life, or the life of another person, is in danger of great bodily harm. It states also that he may resort to the use of force and firearms when he encounters a fleeing felon or one in the act of committing a felony.

The two youths in question were in the act of robbing a privately-owned enterprise — and robbery is definitely and unquestionably a felony in Indiana as in other states. What happened Tuesday night is not new or strange in Indianapolis. It has occurred before, and as always, to the sorrow of all persons involved. Crime in any form is not wanted here and it is the sincere and earnest wish of every businessman, white or colored, that it be suppressed quickly and thoroughly. This can be done only through the police department and law-enforcing agencies as everybody knows — but just how it shall be done has not been figured out to the entire satisfaction of anyone. It is very largely a matter to be thought out individually. It cannot be said that serious crimes being committed by boys of adolescence age should not be stopped; but it will be a hard matter, on the part of policemen, to receive the cooperation they want and need from youngsters when the youngsters know that the same men will shoot them down as though they were seasoned criminals. The police code of ethics as written on paper is adequate for the officer who seeks to hide behind it as an excuse for having killed a felon or dangerous criminal, but when he knows that in spite of all legal safety that he could have avoided taking a human life — the "law" while it frees him legally offers his conscience no protection at all. Our policemen are trained, as was Butler, to fight extremes with extremes, but the officer who is regarded as a law-enforcer and good citizen is one who weighs every situation that he is confronted with carefully before he acts regardless of written law. It can no more be said that a fifteen-year-old boy is justified in breaking the law than it can be said that the officer who fired that fatal shot was justified in taking his life. — A good citizen and a good policeman both are supposed to serve the public by doing their duty and neither of the two can do its duty when it destroys that public's faith by breaking the law or enforcing the law to its extremities.

THE MENACE OF JAPAN

If the Japanese people were all to commit Hari Kari, their own very ancient custom of disemboweling themselves, that would be their own matter. One result of it would be the peace and tranquility in the Far East, and the saving of many hundreds of millions of dollars to the nations of the West.

It would enable certainly the Democratic nations of the world to attend more strictly to their own domestic problems and set their several houses in much better order. Declination by Japan to reveal her naval program to Britain, France and the United States has forced these three nations to consider extensive naval construction, at a time when they are confronted by a multitude of national problems, not the least of which concern the immediate welfare of millions of unemployed people who are being devoured by the ever growing Frankenstein of Technology.

So that while Japan lays waste to China in one of the most indefensible wars of history, she is also contributing to the financial distress of other great nations and preventing them from concentrating upon industrial and social problems within their border.

Thus this newest arrival among the "Powers" pagan, deceitful, cunning, and rapacious, whose spoken words come from "forked tongues" as our plains Indians were wont to call liars — whose written words have been proven to be worthless, and a menace to the orderly and peaceful development of civilization.

Obsessed with the notion that her mission is to drive white men out of Asia, and to direct the affairs of the Asiatic continent, she has put herself in a position where her cards must be called — there is no other alternative.

STAND ON YOUR FEET

In a stirring address to a Newport News audience last Sunday, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, NYA administrator, and noted educator, said: "white America is saying today in no uncertain terms, 'Negroes must stand on their own feet'."

This is a message which needs constant repetition. Gone are the days when the Negro can count upon philanthropy to bridge his rivers of despair. The golden age of charity from white friends for our schools, churches, and institutions has passed into history. This, the day of self-help, of self-denial and courageous adjustment to cope with the emergencies is at hand. For the most part we must look within for the harvest rather than depend upon forces without.

The race will not perish from the earth, but carve a more brilliant chapter in its remarkable history, when, instead of trusting to the breaks, luck, and chance, we "stand on our own feet" and pay the full price of liberty, justice, and economic security.

Syphilis Problem Irks St. Louis

(By R. C. Fisher for ANP)

With health agencies engaged in active and increasing efforts to eradicate syphilis and gonorrhea in the St. Louis area, prostitutes in growing numbers are walking the streets day and night, tapping on windows to attract men in every district of the community and carrying on their profession at a frightful cost in public health.

Wives and children of men who consort with diseased women are being infected with syphilis and gonorrhea by hundreds. City clinics and doctors and doctors' offices reveal the toll among the innocents.

A man or woman infected with syphilis may transmit it in a number of ways. Use of the same towels in a household, the same cups and plates, knives and forks or the kissing of a clean and healthy person by one who is infected may cause infection.

Streetwalkers and women who tap on windows, as well as women who stand concealed at street level doorways until a man goes by, are all infected. This statement was made to newspapermen by Dr. Mar Starkloff, who served St. Louis longer as health commissioner than any man who held that office. Dr. Starkloff is authority for the statement that no prostitute escapes infection.

"After they have been engaged in their calling for a month or six weeks, they are diseased," said Dr. Starkloff.

Now that economic conditions are pressing, many women are resorting to clandestine means of earning money who hitherto were hesitant. That means potential carriers of the brain- and body-wrecking diseases are more numerous in St. Louis. That is true both of white prostitutes and those of our race. Members of our group here, have their problem of gonorrhea and syphilis in tragic proportions, explained the former Health Commissioner.

Down town streets are sources of revenue for diseased women who have their peculiar code of ethics in soliciting men. One group of streetwalkers will patrol a certain district and not encroach on the activities and solicitations of other groups working in the same territory, but on opposite sides of the streets.

"You may be sure," Dr. Starkloff said, "that any woman who may be selected while pursuing her trade on any street in the city, will be shown by a Wassermann test to be syphilitic. What chance has a healthy man to escape infection when a single prostitute will consort with as many as a dozen different men in the space of a few hours? Some of these men are also reeking with disease; but a depraved and infected woman figures she can't be any worse off, so she takes her money from any male who comes along and lets the question of disease go hang."

Where Is the Remedy?

Several doctors to whom this correspondent spoke said it is senseless to arrest women who practice lewdness and hold them for brief periods as punishment. One physician said:

"The only sane way to meet the challenge to community health — particularly young men not wise in the ways of the world and who think they are being clever when they drink and seek the company of prostitutes — is to take all prostitutes into custody and treat them for their diseases. Keep them incarcerated until tests show they are free from syphilis or gonorrhea, or both."

"As soon as they are released they will, of course, return to their calling, for that is the way they earn a living; but, if it became the established rule of the health and police authorities that prostitutes must undergo continuous medical treatment as soon as they are known to be practicing their profession, the problem of disease incident to their activities would decline and the number of syphilis victims in particular would decrease with consequent benefit to the community."

Syphilis and tuberculosis will be the major subjects to be considered during Health Week here April 3 to 10, National Negro Health Week.

CRUISING 'ROUND

(By L. J. MARTIN)

1. ECONOMIC SAP-SUCKERS
2. EVERLASTING WORDS
THE STEERING WHEEL is fastly transforming us from steady conservative community life to a kind of will-o-the-wisp existence, the trailer-car house is the spearhead of this transition. Too many are making the longest auto they can buy the height of their economic endeavor. Young men of today are putting thousands of dollars into automobiles without any visible means of supporting them — for as a newborn babe — the minute he gets an automobile it becomes a dependent. It depends on you for oil and gasoline; it depends on you to drive it, keep it from getting hurt or stolen, keep it from hurting anyone else, it depends on you for its license, its taxes and general upkeep. Why, it can't even blow its own horn — but unlike a baby, which grows more and more self-supporting — the automobile grows worse day by day — there is no possible way to make an automobile grow in value as you use it — and if such a car does not earn or save you enough money to buy a new one at the time you should, then prosperity is checked — or should you be unable to replace your worn-out car at all then prosperity stops. Because we have foolishly placed the automobile too high among our needs and desires. Unless you are in a position to charge it to transportation cost or pleasure — the moment you lay down $1,000 for a car, you lose $500, a few months later you have lost the other five hundred. The automobile is the most short-lived high-priced commodity saddled upon the American people — to the extent that when auto factories close it creates nation wide suffering.

Young men, if you want to use automobiles in business or pleasure first build it on a foundation for support so you will not have to ride one-half of the year and walk the other half.

Learn a business from inside out and outside in — put your first one thousand (less reserve) into that business, then when that one thousand grows into two thousand and keeps growing, then you can support not an automobile — but automobiles.

If you do this you will prevent the autos from sapping the life of all other business.

WITH THREE CARS of a special train waiting and other funeral arrangements being completed — with doctors, nurses, and family sorrowfully waiting for the end, General (Black Jack) Pershing, not only failed to cross the River Jordan, but retreated from its treacherous banks so far, that at this writing, funeral arrangements have been cancelled and relatives gone home. A great warrior for his country, a great warrior for himself. We hope that he will survive. WANTS CAB LICENSES

To the Editor, The Recorder:
Is our democratic city government fair to Negro enterprise? After voting our executives into office for our welfare and then petitioning our highest executive, Mayor Boettcher, for privilege to operate a Negro enterprise owned and operated by Negroes pleading with our city councilmen and members of our safety board then being refused we filed a suit against the City in Superior Court 2 presided over by Judge Williams for license to operate a Negro cab company. The outcome of this suit will determine whether the people have a right to tell how to run the city or the democratic administration seems to say, "Because you are Negroes we will tell you what to do."

Does not our Constitution give us equal rights especially the 14th Amendment which says that, "No state shall have the right to make laws that will abridge the rights of its citizens."

Our democratic office-holders say that the law they made does not allow us the right to operate a cab company. It is a privilege that is left with them to grant. Look out for other questions in the next edition of the Recorder.

THANKS FRIENDS FOR SUPPORT

To the Editor, The Recorder:
I wish to thank the Indianapolis Recorder and my many friends for the support given me in my campaign for the nomination of the Mayor of Bronzeville. I hope these same friends and many more will give me their support in the general election.

I also wish to congratulate the other candidates and nominees. Thanks to every one. Very truly yours,

KELLY MILLER Says:

YOU CAN'T STOP ME FROM DREAMING

The caption of this release furnishes the theme of a popular song, which has become one of the hits of the season. I wish, however, after the manner of the preacher, to take this theme as a text from which to draw valuable lessons.

For the Negro race at this crucial stage of its existence. We often look upon a dream as a visionary idea of anticipation of what the future may be, vain fancy and wild scheme. Founders of great races, nations and institutions have frequently caught a pre-vision or foreglimpse of coming greatness through the medium of dreams.

Abraham, the father of the faithful, through a dream pre-visualized himself to be the father and founder of a great people through whose seed all the nations of the earth should be blessed. Moses, in obedience to the vision vouchsafed to Abraham, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, but preferred to lead his people out of Egyptian bondage, through the wilderness into the Promised Land.

Father Aeneas, as Virgil tells us in Enid, in pursuit of his dream pressed through the vicissitudes of fortune and made himself father and founder of the Latin Race. The Apostle Paul, the constructive statesman of Christianity, was illumined by his elevation to the Third Heaven and remained forever thereafter obedient to the Heavenly vision. The Pilgrim Fathers dreamed of a land beyond the sea, where they might worship God after the dictates of their own conscience. In following out this dream a new civilization has sprung up in the Western World. Our forefathers and mothers in the dark days of slavery dreamed of their happy home beyond this veil of tears, that's built on High "far above the starry sky". What else could have sustained them amid the cruelities and hardships of the dark days of slavery? The Christian still dreams of the coming of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth where cruelty and injustice, sickness and sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more. Who would or could stop them from dreaming?

When the Negro race was set free, it began to dream a new dream, which brought the Kingdom of their hopes down from the skies, into closer proximity to the world that is here now. The happy home of a happy race was located on the earth beneath. The black patriots dreamed, America the land of the free and the home of the brave, in which the Negro's enjoyment of citizenship would not be denied or abridged on account of race, color or previous conditions.

Negro ecclesiasts dreamed of the founding of a Christian Church, where the Negro could stretch forth his hands, and worship God under his own vine and fig-tree with none to molest or make afraid. Ambitious Negro leaders energized by the first breath of freedom dreamed of establishing great projects — cities, towns, railroads, banks, factories, corporations and commercial houses which would rival the gigantic projects of this material age. Marcus Garvey dreamed a dream which no Negro ever dared to dream before, when he envisioned a great Empire across the seas of four hundred million souls under the dominion of Negro Princes and potentates. The Negro scholars dreamed of a Cultural Empire where Negroes would enter into the patrimony of learning beyond the veil where race prejudice is unknown.

But alas, alas, the happenings of the last seventy years have dimmed the rosy tint of these idealistic dreams with the somber shade of actuality. The Negro of the present generation finds his earlier promise and prospect so blasted that hope gives way to hopelessness. Courage yields to discouragement. The imagination contracts itself to a circumscribed situation; his political hopes have faded; his religious garment is stained with the greed and lust of the flesh; his practical enterprises are reduced to little more than a struggle for existence. Ethiopia, the Negro's pride of a half century ago, have fallen prey to the white man's political rapacity. Marcus Garvey's voice has been hushed by the roar of the British Lion. The present day Negro peon is a doleful Jeremia. The pessimist never dreams. For want of vision, the people perish. Woe be to that day when the old men among us cease to see visions and the young men to dream dreams.

Let the Negro say to the white race with unabashed self assurance, "You may put me in Jim-crow cars, confine me to separate schools, you may curtail my economic and industrial opportunities, refuse to make lynching a crime, restrict my political and civil rights," yet you can't stop me from dreaming.

YOUR HEALTH

... IS YOUR WEALTH ...

The problem of air conditioning in summer are, of course, much more frequent than those of air conditioning in winter. If we reproduced winter air conditions on a warm summer day, we would find them comfortably cold.

In the summer we adapt ourselves to higher temperatures; we wear less and much lighter clothing, and we want our temperatures warmer than we want them in winter.

Anyone who has traveled on modern trains knows that quite frequently air conditioning devices in dining cars and in Pullmans make the air so cold that distinct discomfort results. In warm weather a comfortable temperature is usually 10 to 20 degree higher than in cold weather.

COOLING PROBLEM MORE DIFFICULT THAN HEATING

The problem of cooling for comfort in warm weather is much more difficult than heating in winter. It raises not only the question of variations in the rates of metabolism and the sweating of various human beings, but also the possible dangers to the human body of chilling the skin when we are warm and perspiring.

An air condition that is comfortable to people with dry skin and clothing may be far too cold for those who are perspiring. For instance, the employees in a motion graved on the main shrine of that Plaza. We can by vivid imagination vision the day — when some far off expedition from a continent now unknown, shall pitch its camp on the spot that was Indianapolis, and begin to dig into the sands for concrete facts of a civilization that was — and finally unearth this shrine and read on the noble words of this mighty warrior — I can see these historians by their campfires reading the life and works of this great man until interrupted by a member of the expedition: "We heard about that man. You know, my ancestors also lived in this country before the great and storms made it desert waste, and the tales and stories of this once fine land have been passed down from generation to generation to us. Some we believed and some we didn't, but now I know this one about the great World War soldier is true. Yes, I remember very distinctly the tales of how much colored soldiers thought of him, despite the fact that he had no confidence in colored army officers over colored soldiers. Strange the everlasting power of words — we came here to dig into the mysteries of the distant past and to glorify our ancestors. Men, you may have achieved your objective, but to me — we have dug in vain." Ding! Ding! Dong!

THAT LIVE ON

Over the wintry threshold
Nannie who comes with joy to-day,
So frail, yet so enduring to triumph
O'er dismay.
Or, quick her tears springing and quickly
They are dried for sorrow walks
before her,
But gladness walks beside.
Nannie comes with gusts to laughter.

The music of the rills,
With tenderness and sweetness,
The wisdom of the hills,
Nannie comes with gusts of laughter.
Her heart is quick to heal.
Nannie, darling, knows the sign of sadness,
She knows the poise of need.
There is no living creature,
However poor or small,
But Nannie she knows its trouble
And harkens to its call.

FOR THEE, LOVE

All that I have shall be yours to ask for,
Love, loyalty, and goods made of gold;

All that I win, you may take me to task for,
Random pennies or wealth untold.

Whether my dough is spoiled in the baking,
Whether we're apples of Eden or only cores;
All that I have will be yours for the taking,
Even Paradise and its pearl-beaded shores.

Tell me your wish—I shall never mock it,
Ask the heart from my ribs and its yours,
Wish for the moon, I shall build a rocket,

And send you on ultra deluxe stellar tours.
Whether you long for bread or for butter most,
Whether it's calico you like or lace
All that you want I will give to my utmost,

But don't ever let anyone take my place.

LOVE AND ROMANCE

Love and romance passed me by,
So common my poor face appeared,
That neither of them raised an eye,
To look upon me when I neared.

This pair called love and romance seek,
For men with handsome features rare
Not those who are humble and weak.

Or for facials they seldom care.
If love and romance looked my way,

For me no second glance they gave,
They have no love affairs to pay;
To men as homely as I neared.

They smile when daring men are nigh,
But pass us unhandsome mugs by,
Successfully an inspired man can live.

Without what love and romance give.

And countless thousands day by day

Go out to work the selfsame way,
But would poor me success deny Though love and romance passed poor me by.

CREEDS

(By Willis B. Keller for ANP)

I try too hard to make the grade,
Thus, suffer all achievements made.
Perhaps, with smaller efforts shown.

It's funny how just all around
Some straighten up when losing ground,
Some drop down wearily in their tracks.

Some never try to gain success,
Yet, win the fame we toilers bless.

While others barely look about
And find their chances blooming out.

But little should I pause and fret,
The precious things are hard to get.

The lowly trophies can be found
On anybody's hunting ground.
As human as I'll always be,
My job's entirely up to me,
Although I fail to reach the top,
I loathe the attitude to stop.

The Turning Wheels — Stuart
Cloete.

"The Turning Wheels" by Stuart Cloete is a novel of the great trek of the Boers from the settled Cape Colony to the Tarnsvaal.
Piercing, intrepid, lusty Dutchmen took their horses, their cattle, their sheep, into the land of the Kafirs and Zulus, driving their wagons until they found lush pastures and rich fields away from the meddling of the English. The story centers in the beautiful Sannie; her elderly husband, Hendrik van der Berg, who was possessed by a passion for increase in his family and his herds; and Zwart Piet due Plessis, her lover, who broke away from the peaceful life of the farmers to win fame as a hunter and fighter. More than this, however, it is the story of a passionate, earthy people, their battle with a wilderness, their false sense of security in the midst of the rank luxuriance of the valley in which they settled, and the final vengeance of the natives who swept down with fire and spear.

The Book of Festivals — Dorothy Gladys Spicer.

"The Book of Festivals" shows the reader that festivals are but one of many common forces that unite nations and give continuity to cultural thought. The same festival runs through the folk life of different peoples, regardless of racial origin, geographical location or religious belief. The human emotion that prompts the festival is precisely the same whether the celebration occurs in India, America, Finland, or Greece. Although festivals may vary from country to country in name and manner of observance, in spirit they remain always the same.

The festivals described have been selected on the basis of nationality — with the two exceptions of the Hindus and the Mohammedans.
The text gives a detailed discussion as to why the Hindus and Mohammedans are not classified as to nationality.

The principal religious, national and local holidays of different races have been described, although less emphasis has been placed on political anniversaries than on days associated with old folk practices and beliefs.

"The Book of Festivals" also serves as a handbook for librarians, teachers, students, social workers,
festival and pageant directors, travelers, writers, and others who may wish, for either practical or aesthetic reasons, to delve more deeply into the festive heritage of different peoples.

Mrs. Astor's Horse — Stanley Walker.

In this book the author has brought together some of the more attractive examples of curious Americana, particularly in the field of the ornate and overstuffed. There is a vast amount of material, every line interesting and sometimes rather amusing. For example, there is a chapter entitled,
"Sex Comes to America," which gives the reader a vivid picture of Mae West's life, "When a Mug Dies," which gives a picturesque picture of the funerals of big-time racketeers, and approximately twenty other chapters just as interesting if not more.

MARDI GRAS GRIPS NEW ORLEANS WITH KING ZULU

NEW ORLEANS, March 10. (By Leon Lewis for ANP)—King Zulu arrived again as thousands flocked to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras celebration, climaxing—the most colorful Mardi Gras that New Orleans has seen. Thousands and thousands of persons, old and young, stood on paper littered streets to watch King Zulu, his attendants, and aides parade in African attire. Leopold Le Blanc, resembling one of the tribe chiefs of the Dark Continent, was applauded generously as he and his train of followers paraded through the various sections of town stopping off at taverns, cafes, and other places where Negroes and whites had gathered to celebrate the arrival of King Zulu. Music, laughter, dancing, and everything that is colorful and gay, kept New Orleans gripped in the spirit of fun throughout the day. Every conceivable place was crowded to capacity. Welcome was the password for entrance into all places of business and pleasure. Throughout the night, until the wee hours of the morning, night spots were going in full blast.

The Mardi Gras and its participants held the reins of the city for more than seventy-two hours. Urban transportation was rerouted. Traffic gave way to parades and spectators were clad in costumes ranging from those of hoboes to crown princes. All types of sounds from all kinds of horns and noise-makers could be heard throughout the city. The very atmosphere made you feel that you were in the midst of an international carnival in which every nation, tribe, sect, and class of individuals on the face of the globe was taking part.

Cafes and refreshment places were allowed to extend their services to the edge of the curb so that passersby might get cool drinks or a hamburger.

The Mardi Gras is always a thrilling spectacle in which every grown-up and child takes an active part, and it is a part of New Orleans—an annual feature to which hundreds of people from other states look forward to coming each year.

DANCER SUES ANDY KIRK MEMBER FOR $10,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT IN OHIO

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 10. (By Clarence L. Simmons for ANP)—A story of heart-break, disillusionment, and broken promises was revealed here Tuesday in the filing of a breach of promise suit by Miss Josephine Myers, beautiful Cleveland dancer, 2361 Cedar avenue, against Booker Collins, whose address is given as the Majestic Hotel.

The young woman, who is internationally famed for the interpretive dances and who has enjoyed top billing in such aggregations as Blackbirds of 1929-32, with which she toured European countries, charges specifically that Collins, a musician, and member of Andy Kirk's orchestra, promised to marry her and then reneged.

In her petition, Miss Collins asserted that the romance between the couple began in 1932 while she was engaged as a night club dancer and that from that time Collins showered her with attentions during a whirlwind romance that included a round of dances, parties, and elaborate gifts. Collins, according to the dancer, professed undying love, and persuaded her to prop association with all of her male admirers, attempted to persuade her to give up her stage career, and proposed to her and was accepted in January, 1933.

On the Avenue in Miami

(JOE CARPENTER)

I made a trip to the beautiful City of Lakeland on the west coast. I traveled along Lake Okechobee, a most beautiful road. Along this road there are miles of green beans and cabbage grown. You also see miles and miles of orange and grapefruit groves. At Bartow, Fla., I passed the winter training park of our Indianapolis Indians. In Lakeland, you pass the training park of the Detroit Tigers. I returned to Palm Beach on Sunday just in time to drop in on Charles D. Taggart at his Harlem Inn, where every Saturday night he puts on a most pleasing foot show. The floor show was produced by Maxwell and Weaver, two very clever dancers. In the show also were Willie Mae Smith, Dot Walker, and others. Mr. Taggart serves the very best of everything. If you want a good time in good company, don't fail to see the Harlem Inn. After leaving the Harlem Inn, I dropped in the Grill on Third avenue. The grill is where you can find seafoods of all kinds. I ran in to some of my old Kentucky friends, Mr. and Mrs. Berryman and Jim Shack Bell of Lexington, Ky. We ran off a few, if you know what I mean. On Monday I had to start North on my way home. My first stop was in Jacksonville, the gateway to Florida. The next stops were Atlanta, Chattanooga, Tenn., and then home.

FISK FACULTY COMPOSER HEARS OWN WORKS IN CHAPEL

NASHVILLE, March 10. (ANP)—John W. Work, for twelve years professor of music at Fisk University, and son of parents who led the Fisk Jubilee Singers in the last century, listened to a concert of his own compositions in Fisk Memorial Chapel last Friday.

The concert opened with Mr. Work's "Sonata for Piano in C Minor" (1935), which was rendered by William Allen, concert pianist and assistant professor in pianoforte at Fisk. Another composition, of variations on original theme, written for piano (1933) was interpreted by Robert M. Hemingway, another of Fisk's instructors in pianoforte.

"From the Deep South" suite for organ, (1936) was rendered by Alice M. Grass, university organist. In this suite is the spiritual "You May Bury Me in the East."

Accompanied by A. Eloise Clarke, at the piano, Harold C. Schmidt, head of the Department of Music played "Nocturne for Violin," composed in (1937).

As a finale, the university choir of sixty voices sang three choral compositions: "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains" (1935), "Jesus Is a Rock in a Weary Land," (1937), and "Sing, O Heavens." The Nashville music public received "Sing, O Heavens" with warm appreciation in 1934, which was composed for the Scarritt College choir here in Nashville and sung at their decennial commencement.

Other compositions from the pen of John W. Work are "Goin' Home to Live With God," "Po' Ol' Lazarus," "Stand the Storm," and "This Ol' Hammer Killed John Henry."

CHICAGO GIRL SOPRANO PRAISED AT LOOP RECITAL

CHICAGO, March 10. (ANP)—Catherine Van Buren, young lyric soprano, won the praise of critics last Sunday at her first downtown recital, presented at the Women's Club Theatre. Sponsored by the Celia Parker Woolley Committee on Race Relations, proceeds of the recital were turned over to the building fund of Good Shepherd Community Center (Congregational).

Of her singing ability, Music Critic Cecil Smith, of the Chicago Tribune, commented, "Miss Van Buren is relatively new to the concert stage, for she was quite recently graduated from Oberlin College, where she received her musical and vocal training. . . . Her light voice is unusually pure and clear and combines sweetness of timbre with an agreeable suggestion of tang and bite. . . . Her time is almost always a delight to hear."

"Coming up the most thrilling picture ever filmed"

SUBMARINE D-1

The most thrilling picture in history is Submarine D-1. The first great drama of modern undersea warfare starring hell-divers of the deep, who flirt with death and laugh! Submarine D-1, a picture dealing with the exploits of Uncle Sam's undersea boats and the gallant lads who man them, will thrill you to your heart's content. There are scores of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and airplanes taking part, and many hundreds of Gobs and Marines are seen going through their peace- and war-time duties. So Submarine D-1 seems to be just what its makers term it "best service film" Warner Bros. have ever produced. Starring three masculine stars: Pat O'Brien, George Brent, and Wayne Morris. Added attraction, "Ali Baba Goes to Town," starring Eddie Cantor.

3 R's at Butler:--

Readin', Ritin', an' Razzin'

By Marian Holiman

What's new at Butler this week? Not much we guess. Nearly all of the organizations are planning something. The Student Fellowship is undecided on whether to give a play or a dance; and the Delta's are planning their annual Jabberwock. The future looks very promising.

Payburn DeFrantz speaks Wednesday on a very interesting program in the recreation room by the Student Fellowship.

Students here are very modest and hate to admit that they are students, so until some more of them conquer their modesty and tell us their grades we can't enlighten the public. So far, Beatrice Elliott ranks at the top of the scholastic ladder.

You've read the expression, "All of Gaul is divided into three parts"? Well, the same is true of Butler. There is the class that considers itself better than the other students; the next class is concerned only with pleasure and "getting by"; and the third class is interested only in books. There is a distinct separation between these three groups. It is a very lamentable situation and until we colored students learn to get along with each other, to conquer our petty jealousies and antipathies, we'll never get anywhere as a race. A hint to the wise is still sufficient.

DON'T SAY WE TOLD YOU, BUT—

We were disappointed when we saw Clifford Shelton in the theatre without Vida Lane because he wasn't with anybody else either. He did look lonesome with his arm around that empty seat.

Geneva King told us that Edward Thomas was the last boy on earth to sleep at night.

Freida Cooke has a picture of a handsome lad on her radio and she refuses to divulge his name.

We wonder if she knows his name or did she find the picture?

We see Martha Ann Fisher and Clarence Keno together quite often. They make a very romantic couple (pardon us, we mean romantic).

OFF THE CAMPUS

Whenever you see Clarence Lee or Rachel Hardrick, Edward Manlove is not far behind.

Contributed Verse:

C. C. cooking doesn't last, L. D. Jones reduces fast.

Marian Francis seems to be "sewed up" with a handsome tall or here lately and Esther Holiman "seams" to be in "attiches" about it.

Contributed Remarks by a Guest Reporter: Is it true that Helen Holder and Clarence Franklin are contemplating matrimony? It looks serious to us.

A famous triangle: Frances Holder, Jack Smith, and Hubert Dabner.

Ask James and Hubert Dabner what was the secret of the missing overcoats last Thursday night. Someone has threatened your columnist. They said that after this week there would be only two R's at Butler, just readin' and writin'. Well, time will tell.

Love and Kisses.

On The Air

(By SALLYE BELL for ANP)

CHICAGO, March 11. — If you heard "Interesting Neighbors" last Sunday, you know now that a real Creole is NOT a "person of color" as has been generally assumed. The program was broadcast last Sunday from New Orleans, where the Mardi Gras was beginning, and a real Creole who lived in one of the most historic houses was interviewed; he told us the occasion to enlighten the nation as to the real origin of a Creole. He defined Creole as those who came from the European continent and settled in New Orleans before Spain ceded the Louisiana Purchase to France. Creoles, then, are a combination of "American" Europeans and French. It was explained further, that the Creoles had a habit of referring to their possessions as "Creole," viz: their "mammys" were called "Creole mammys" and the language they spoke was called "Creole dialect." And that, my friends, is how people came to think that Creoles were colored people.

Personally, I still think that some Creoles are colored; because, if I remember correctly, those southern "mammys" had nappy hair, and how does one explain the beautiful silken tresses of some of the colored "Creoles" from New Orleans? However, if it makes our friend happy to think that white people have a monopoly on the Creole classification, let it go. What difference does it make, anyway?

I hope you have been busy with your fan mail campaign for Etta Moten, new star of "Cabin at the Crossroads." You will be interested to know, too, that the Sammy Williams and his Rhythm Rascals you hear on the same program is the same lad who once played the organ at the Regal theatre on Chicago's South Parkway, so you might mention him in your letter of appreciation to the National Broadcasting Company, Chicago, while you're praising Miss Moten's work.

From Augusta we learn that the Saturday services of the daily religious program broadcast through the local station are conducted by Negro ministers and their choirs.

Here 'n' There . . . Noble Sissle has concocted a "musical cavalcade" named "The Chillun of Old Black Joe," which is supposed to be his first writing for the stage since he and Lew Payton turned out "The Chocolate Dandies" in 1934. . . . Hailing from New York we hear loud applause for the Oleaners, well-known radio and stage quartet of two tenors and two bass. . . . Lincoln U. History Week inspired Mr. Lloyd Hughes of California to make a radio address from Jefferson City on "The Negro in Mexico." . . . WGN will make an exclusive broadcast on the flow-by-blow description of all the final Chicago Golden Glove boxing tournament bouts. . . . The signing off of the Tuskegee Institute Choir certainly will leave a gasp in our Sundays; here's hoping they don't take too long returning. This is the end of the line, folks, until next week. So, goodbye, please!

SENTENCE DIXIE YOUTH AS LEADER OF MILK THEFT GANG

RALEIGH, N. C., March 10. (ANP)—Harvey Curley, 18, was sentenced to four months on the roads last Monday when convicted in City Court of being the leader of a gang of urchins who in recent weeks have been purloining hundreds of bottles of milk from the doorsteps of residences. Five small boys, ranging in age from 11 to 15, told police Curley was leader of their petty milk thieving gang. Officials of Wake County Dairyman's Association pressed the investigation after receiving repeated complaints from housewives.

COMMUNITY HOSPITAL DANCE AT TOMLINSON HALL, MARCH 18 TO DRAW RECORD DANCE CROWD

FLASH . . . "The Trumpet King of Swing," Louis Armstrong and his famous orchestra featuring such nationally known stars as Luis Russell, Henry "Red" Allen, Bobbie Coston and Sonny Woods, comes to town from a recent triumph in Hollywood, where they appeared in pictures with Mae West and Bing Crosby, for a one night dance engagement at Tomlinson hall, Friday night, March 18th.

The dance is being sponsored by the Community Hospital, and a record-breaking attendance is assured. Hoosiers in all walks of life are sure to give the great maestro and "trumpeter" the greatest welcome ever witnessed in this neck of the woods. Dance-lovers are busy making preparations to entertain the hundreds of out-of-towners in lavish style. Advance tickets are now on sale, and according to the committee, they are selling like wildfire.

On every corner the name of Armstrong is in the air . . . the people are bending every effort to attend this affair and to contribute their mite towards the maintenance funds for their own hospital. Be sure and tell your friends to meet you at Tomlinson Hall, Friday, March 18.

The Nicholas Bros. Signed for Pictures

NEW YORK CITY, March 10.—The sensational Nicholas Brothers who are still stopping shows at the Paramount Theatre on Broadway, have been signed to a long-term contract by Jesse Lasky 20th Century-Fox executive.

Signed to appear in several pictures, the youthful brothers will leave for the coast directly after the Paramount engagement which is already in its third week.

The band comes to town direct from Hollywood, where they appeared in several pictures, one of which was shown recently at the Walker theatre. The dance is being sponsored by the Community Hospital, with Atty. Henry J. Richardson, Jr., general chairman, and Richard S. Winston, publicity chairman.

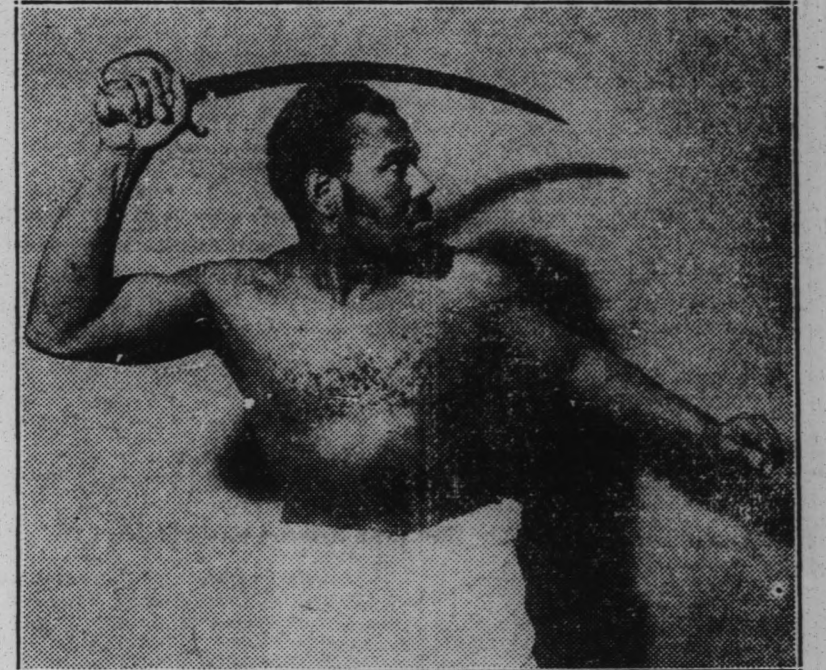

REX INGRAM IN "HAITI" ROLE

NEW YORK, March 10. (ANP) — Rex Ingram, who says he has a doctor's degree in medicine and a Phi Beta Kappa key from Northwestern University where he was reputedly a star athlete, gave up his research in tuberculosis to return to the stage where he is now portraying the role of Christophe in "Haiti," now being presented at the Lafayette theatre, it was announced last week by the WPA Federal Theatre project, producers of the show.

Mr. Ingram, is most famous for "De Lawd" in the screen version of "The Green Pastures," has had little time to practice his chosen profession. His first screen appearance was in 1920 while in Los Angeles. Then he had started special study in tuberculosis. After several films, he appeared on the stage, his most notable role being "Stevedore."

When called to play the part of Christophe, Mr. Ingram had again started doing research work in tuberculosis.

FLETCHER'S ARRANGEMENTS "SENT" GOODMAN'S BAND

King of Swing

FLETCHER HENDERSON TEXARKANA, March 10. — The old man "Christopher Columbus" himself (Fletcher Henderson to you) and his Grand Terrace orchestra packed 'em in here, March 8. The band will play Indianapolis, Ind., Friday, April 15. The band has broken every dance record set in these parts by famous bands. Fletcher's popularity of old has returned, according to newspaper critics throughout the country.

According to Earl Morris's column of last week, appearing in a nationally known weekly, and carrying the names of Jan Garber and Freddie Large, Benny Goodman is not the "King of Swing." "I don't care who is," continued the article, "but he isn't. Mr. Goodman has a top band, it is true. How could Benny Goodman be the king of swing when he was defeated last May in a battle of swing by Chick Webb? In Chicago in 1936, Benny Goodman declared to the press that 'Fletcher Henderson was the King of Swing!'"

"Benny Goodman has a great band, but he didn't begin to kick any fuss until Fletcher Henderson moved into the Grand Terrace in 1936 and set the nation to swaying with Leon 'Choo' Berry's 'Christopher Columbus.' Goodman was on hand every night to get first-hand knowledge of swing music. Then Fletcher Henderson began writing arrangements for him. He later 'thieved' James Munday from Earl Hines. That is why you sometimes hear those chords and riffs of Fletcher Henderson and Earl Hines in the Goodman band." Fletcher Henderson's incomparable dance band will invade Naptown, Friday, April 15, to play for the Bronzeville Election Ball at Tomlinson Hall.

RUMOR RIFT IN JO BAKER'S 3RD WEDDING TREK

NEW YORK CITY, March 10 (ANP) — Rumors persisted this week in theatrical circles that Josephine Baker, the "Barling of Paris" and long-time star of the Folies Bergere, and her recently acquired third husband, Jean Lyons, wealthy importer, had about reached a parting of the ways. Miss Baker's previous husbands: Billy Baker, Chicago, and an Italian, the latter divorced in 1935.

SWANKY NITER IS LAST WORD

The swanky Oriental Cafe, 507-9-11 Indiana avenue, will open as a Chinese and American food shop, as soon as finishing touches can be made by decorators now busy making the new night spot the last word in local taverns.

The building has been completely renovated and redecorated. The outside is done in colored stucco, and is considered a novel "find" in present-day construction. The neat and trimmed appearance of the building places it in the forefront of similar structures along the avenue.

Announcement of the opening date will be made in these columns next week. The Oriental will specialize in wines, liquors, beer, and Chinese and American dishes. The personnel are Earl Clemons, proprietor; George Graham, manager, Harry Lee, assistant manager.

BRONZEVILLE IN INDIANAPOLIS

THE TWELVE WINNERS. . . .

These twelve highest candidates will enter the Grand Election, at which time the Mayor will be elected. All of Bronzeville awaits the final answer April 15, in Tomlinson Hall . . . with music by Fletcher Henderson and his "Christopher Columbus" dance band. . . .

WEEDS. . . . Local police authorities are making a determined drive against the sale of marihuana cigarettes—WEEDS, my frans . . . a drug so deadly that those who use it "blow their tops" in double-quick time . . . many youngsters up and down De Avenue are blowin' their top daily . . . several were forced to return home because of this drug habit. . . . Watch your youngsters closely, and don't hesitate to call the police should you discover some 'cig oldsters trying to peddle these cigarettes. . . .

A SERVICE. . . . Whoever is elected Mayor of Bronzeville can render a real service to the group by asking the chief of police to tell his men that by donning a uniform does not set the wearer apart with a "bull hook" handles his men about like a circus worker to herd the rest of the race of elephants. They should remember to be courteous at all times. This should go for school teachers, social workers and all others on the public payroll. . . . They should remember that the public pays the bill. . . . And they are just envelope "takers." . . .

CONGRATS. . . . We are in receipt of a congratulatory letter from Edward Bailey, former circulation manager of The Recorder, on the Bronzeville election. We do appreciate hearing from old employees and especially during the troublesome times. . . . Bronzeville Marches On. . . .

LaStaff, Scottie, Kellar. . . . A letter from Frank J. LaStaff, former advertising man on The Recorder, and now busy promoting Food Shows throughout the country, writes in to tell of the wonderful success he has had in cities like New York, Cleveland, and now Youngstown. He also informs us that Clarence Scott, former managing editor of The Recorder is busy writing news for an ofay newspaper in Youngstown. Miss Eloise Kellar, demonstrator with Mr. LaStaff is making history for her race throughout the country, and is soon to be placed in a responsible position with a large nationally known company. . . . They send their best regards to friends in this neck of the woods. . . . Hats off to this progressive trio.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY. . . . Mr. William H. (Big Jack) Jackson, newspaperman, orator, politician and raven will enjoy a delightful evening in the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A., Friday, March 18, when his friends will tender him a birthday party as an expression of their love and appreciation for his 73 years of fighting in the front ranks for his race. . . . Mr. Jackson has served his race well. His age has not deterred him from his life's work. . . . Now, in the sundown of his brilliant career, his friends will pay homage to his untiring efforts toward making this a better place in which to live for all humanity. . . . It is indeed fitting and proper that his EPI-TAPH be read to him while he still remains in the flesh. . . . We can think of none better than "As Friends, we salute you, we pray
